The mission of the Hamilton County Purchasing Department is to educate and provide assistance and direction to the Administrators, Vendors, and Community through all phases of the procurement process. Our goal is to be proactively concerned about our customers' needs in a manner that adds value and builds respect for the continued growth of the current and future relationships.

How is Hamilton County Structured?

Hamilton County has approximately 4,500 employees in 30 separate departments. The Purchasing Department is responsible for all competitive purchasing in Hamilton County. Additionally, the Purchasing Department is offering its services to other political subdivisions within the state. This program is called the Master Bid Service. Hamilton County is permitting Master Bid members to “piggy back” on opportunities bid by the County and we are independently soliciting quotes on behalf of our Master Bid Clients as well.

County commissioners make up the general administrative body for county government. They hold authority for government taxing, budgeting, appropriating, and purchasing; and they hold title to county property. However, eight other elected officials, the judiciary, and several independent commissions possess executive authority for their offices.

What are the basic procurement rules for Hamilton County?

The basic rules for procurement in Hamilton County are as follows:

- Three price quotes are required for any purchase valued at $1,000 to $49,999.99.
- At $50,000 County Departments are required to competitively bid for services.
- If the value of the order is over $1,000, the department must give the vendor a purchase order before the order can be placed.
- These basic rules may be different when making purchases with federal funds or grant funds.
- Departments are permitted to use State Term pricing and GSA pricing or the pricing of associations that the County belongs to such as NACO. Permission to utilize these services comes from Section 9.48 of the Ohio Revised Code.
- The general rules for procurement are based on the County’s Purchasing Manual, Section 307.86 of the Ohio Revised Code, and the Code of Federal regulations as applicable.
